Pat Riley will give an illustrated talk on Githa Sowerby, who had a smash hit on the West End in 1912, years before (some) women could even vote. Why has Githa slipped from memory? This is an updated and expanded edition of the book first published in 2009 and which is still the only biography on Githa Sowerby.

Also, we're in for a real treat: an extract from Githa's most famous play Rutherford & Son, will be read by David Pritchard and Jane Gorton (members of Adel Players), reprising their roles in the Adel Players' own production of Rutherford & Son.

Club bar will be open from 4.30pm to 11pm. Book signing and books available for sale. Large free car park
